

NICKEL CADMIUM INDUSTRIAL BATTERIES LIMITED WARRANTY

Standby Power LLC warrants to the original user that all Standby Power Nickel Cadmium industrial batteries will be free from defects in materials or workmanship for 24 (twenty-four) months after date of installation or 27 (twenty-seven) months after date of shipment, whichever is sooner. Proof of date of purchase/installation is required for all claims for breach of this warranty. Normally return of defective product is not required, however, Standby Power reserves the right to require return and the method of shipment. Upon satisfactory proof of claim as determined solely by Standby Power, we will make any necessary repairs or, at our option, exchange any defective battery FOB shipping point without charge.

Charges for correcting defects will not be allowed nor will we accept batteries returned for credit or exchange unless the correction or return is authorized by us in writing. Registration, Installation and Operation records are to be maintained by the user for submission to Standby Power as required to support any warranty adjustment claim. This warranty does not cover failures in service due to the following conditions:

1. Negligence, accident, abuse, or improper, unsuitable or abnormal storage of the products.
2. Improperly installed or applied batteries, improperly charged (either under- or overcharged) batteries.
3. Opening of batteries that are designed and intended in use as sealed products.
4. Physical damage due to acts of nature or man, which stress products beyond design limits or other undesirable influences.

Standby Power's liability is set forth totally under the claims paragraph above. Standby Power shall not have any liability to purchaser/distributor, or to any other person, either directly or by way of indemnification, for consequential, incidental, special or direct damages, whether the claim for any such damages is based on warranty, tort, contract, or otherwise.
